Healing Trauma. Ending Abuse. Building Families

Our Mission

Harmony At Home strives to end the cycles of violence and abuse by empowering children, young adults, and their families with the skills and confidence to lead healthy, productive lives.

A NOTE FROM PRESIDENT/CEO – Julianne Leavy

August 2025

Dear Friends of Harmony At Home,

Harmony At Home has an established impact throughout Monterey County that is being recognized and acknowledged for long term, systemic change.

Savannah, pictured with baby Grace, started her journey of recovery with Harmony At Home almost 20 years ago. Today she is a mom of a beautiful and healthy little girl and has broken the cycles of abuse, poverty and addiction. Just one story amongst the 1000s that we could tell.

In this report, you will enjoy the fruits of our labor as you read about the impact we have had through not only Monterey County but our early impact in San Benito and San Luis Obispo Counties. You will hear stories from incredible people who have supported Harmony At Home for years and who recognize the impact. You will hear from a client, like Savannah, who will share her story of healing.

We continue to be honored and grateful for the collaborative partnerships we enjoy throughout our County. Monterey County has a unique community spirit with non-profits, education, government and business that has led to a significant reduction in violence over these past 16 years.

Thank you to our partners for participating in this collaborative spirit which is serving our community in a holistic and comprehensive manner. This is a model of prevention and early intervention which is breaking generational patterns.

We continue to move forward in our partnership with San Luis Obispo County. We have secured fantastic counselors for this expansion and are looking forward to continuing our growth with our partner to the South.

2024-2025 has been another year of growth and expansion as our community continues to recognize the positive impact we are making. We continue to build our diverse team of highly competent young professionals who are leading our organization into the future with new and innovative technologies. We continue to have strong Board leadership which contributes to the successful governance and oversight of the organization.

The heart of Harmony At Home continues from the day we were founded in 2004, with the same level of passion, drive and dedication to ending the cycles of violence and abuse for children and families.

With Gratitude,

LETTER FROM OUR BOARD PRESIDENT – José A. Arreola

Dear Friends and Donors,

My name is Jose A. Arreola, and I've had the honor of serving as Board President for Harmony At Home over the past year. Sticks & Stones® COUNSELING PROGRAMS

Sticks & Stones® school-based counseling program targets children and youth who have experienced trauma and are exhibiting concerning behaviors where trauma may negatively impact overall functioning. The program uses evidence-based cognitive behavioral strategies to best address the trauma they may be holding, which, if not addressed, can not only negatively impact learning opportunities but also social and emotional functioning.

HAH continues to be known as a training organization that serves as an internship placement for many graduate students. HAH is an employer of choice and provides paid internships and a strong clinical supervision team for interns. This shows our commitment to providing exceptional services to the clients and the strong mental health workforce HAH is helping to build within the counties that we serve. Retention is at a 74% rate and additional full time positions for counselors were open, setting the tone for more impact in the new academic year.

MICHAEL OLIVER, UC BERKELEY

“Harmony At Home assisted me during the hardest time of my life—senior year of high school—full of social clicks, college applications, and for me a change in my personal life. It’s a program I could just go into and let all my emotions out, which is critical for a teenager. The Sticks & Stones® therapist did group sessions for us all to get to know each other and speak through our hardships. I would’ve loved to bring this with me to UC Berkeley, however now I know what an exceptional therapy program looks like after being with Harmony At Home, and I’ll never let my standards down after my experience!”

Family First

Harmony At Home's Family First program was marked by numerous success stories, significant accomplishments, and meaningful breakthroughs. Supporting the entire young family represents a major milestone in the dedication to the well-being of young parents across Monterey County. This effort has greatly enhanced understanding of the vital role that not only young mothers, but also fathers and guardians play in empowering the next generation.

The Family First program serves mothers, fathers, and guardians ages 13–25 who have not yet completed high school. Through a comprehensive model of individual and peer-based support, participants are provided with the tools and confidence to navigate both their educational journey and the responsibilities of parenthood. Support areas include academic advancement, parenting skills, and tailored resources to meet each participant's unique needs.

Family First served 108 young mothers and 16 young fathers, through 1,102 individual support meetings, 12 group sessions, and over 700 diaper and baby essential deliveries by dedicated Case Advocates. Individual and group gatherings focused on addressing a wide range of goals—from earning a high school diploma or GED to pursuing college, vocational training, or stable employment. These interactions were instrumental in reducing barriers to self-sufficiency and long-term success. Family First works with services integrated into schools like the Boys & Girls Clubs, Rancho Cielo, and other youth-serving organizations.

“I have learned to communicate with others and learn more about how to be a better parent.”

A NOTE FROM OUR COMMUNITY LIAISON

“ This past year, I’ve witnessed the incredible ways Harmony At Home strengthens our community — from empowering students with tools for emotional growth to helping families create safe, loving homes. I am constantly inspired by the courage of those we serve and the dedication of our team, who show up every day to break cycles of violence. Every workshop, every conversation, and every act of support plants seeds of healing and resilience. I’m proud to be part of a team that meets people where they are and works alongside them to build a safer, healthier, and more connected future. ”

Children 1st

Children 1st is a co-parenting Education Program for Divorcing and Separating Families. For most children, the most challenging aspect of the divorce process is the ongoing, unresolved conflict that often results from how parents cope with the pain of separation or respond to each other's behavior. The Children 1st program is specifically designed to address these challenges.

Data shows that the leading reason students are referred to our counseling programs is due to parental separation and the trauma associated with the disruption of key relationships.

After funding from the Heal Together Grant through the Hospice Giving Foundation concluded, Harmony At Home's Children 1st shifted from being primarily a group-based model to providing more individualized support. Children 1st continues to collaborate with schools across Monterey County to offer classes to parents of referred students. Instructors work with mothers, fathers, and children, either in person or virtually, adapting to whatever format best suits each family's needs.

“Being a teen mom empowers me to be a success for me and for my child.”

— TEEN MOM

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- ✿ 63 Parents
- ✿ 32 Children
- ✿ 85% Reported improvement in the child's socio-emotional wellbeing

Survey Results:

- ✿ 88% Better understanding of child development
- ✿ 91% Better understanding of their children's health needs
- ✿ 88% Better understanding of overall parenting skills

Over the past year, in partnership with schools in Salinas, Seaside, and Fresno, Children 1st served 63 parents and their 32 children, offering a series of ongoing classes featuring culturally responsive instruction, Spanish-speaking educators, and thoughtful referral coordination. The program started the process of creating support groups for mothers and fathers who have completed the program for ongoing peer led connection and conversation. Children 1st hosted 4 group sessions for MPUSD and will add more school districts. Upon completion of the program, participants received a certificate of completion, which is officially recognized by the Monterey County court as a certified parenting course.

Children 1st has just begun its growth into Fresno County with hopes to continue expanding throughout California.

DALE MEYER'S INSPIRING AND SPIRITED CONNECTION to her parents and this community

Dale Meyer's parents' motto was to "give where you live." She has proudly carried on that legacy of charitable giving through the years, honoring her parents, while also forging her own paths.

At just two years old, Dale told her parents, Hank and Lenore, how much she appreciated and admired them. "I've always strived to uphold the values, compassion, integrity, and courage that my parents so inspired," said Dale.

As a child, and into her late teens, Dale pursued her passion as a ballet dancer, studying in New York, performing on stage in South Florida, as well as a ballet performance on the Jackie Gleason Christmas show.

She subsequently graduated from Miami-Dade Community College and the University of Miami. After working at two Miami television stations, she joined Hank Meyer Associates public relations firm, and eventually became Vice Chairman.

Dale's late father Hank was legendary in the field of public relations in South Florida. In fact, they called him "Mr. Miami Beach," and named a boulevard after him. He was instrumental in bringing over 60 television shows to Miami Beach in the 1950s and 60s, including Jackie Gleason, Arthur Godfrey, Mike Douglas, and Jack Paar.

Dale's late mother Lenore was a speech and drama teacher, and later became an accomplished sculptor and insightful poet. Some of Lenore's poems have been featured at Harmony At Home's luncheon events, as well as in recent annual reports.

"'Harmony' was one of my mother's favorite words, representing a state of balance and inner peace...acknowledging that although life can be complex, to stay true to one's ideals," Dale said. "Harmony is how musicians use sounds to tell stories and evoke emotions. To me, that is the essence of what my mother's poems reflect, in words."

Creativity ran deeply in the Meyer family—and they used it for good. Lenore's sculptures were inspired by the doodle drawings Hank would often sketch during his creative processes and problem-solving.

“I’ve always strived to uphold the values, compassion, integrity, and courage that my parents so inspired”

—DALE MEYER

Various sculptures by Lenore, from Hank’s doodle drawings have been donated to medical centers and educational institutions, including: Montage Health, Monterey Peninsula College, Stevenson School, El Camino Health, and Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

Dale also displayed her own artistic talents in creating one-of-a-kind couture necklaces which were featured in fine jewelry stores, retail stores, and luxury hotels in Florida and California. With her jewelry designs, she would also stage “trunk shows,” where a portion of the proceeds from the events were donated to various charitable organizations.

Through her donor advised grant recommendations to the Community Foundation for Monterey County, from the Lenore and Dale Meyer Fund, Dale says she focuses primarily on the areas of human services, medical, education, the environment, the arts, and animal welfare.

In 2020, Dale became paralyzed in her right leg with a neuroinflammatory disorder, but that has not impeded her from her connection to this community, and making a meaningful impact through her philanthropy. “In the past five years, I’ve learned to take every day, literally, a step-at-a-time — with perseverance and determination, in my journey to walking again,” she said. “My caregivers Elva and Eddie bring me such joy and inspiration also.”

Dale added that “it has been wonderful to get to know Julianne and Mike Leavy, and their vision and dedication to Harmony At Home, which plays such a meaningful role in helping children and families to lead healthy and productive lives.”

Dale Meyer

A NOTE OF GRATITUDE FROM OUR CEO

“The first time Dale and I spoke, we knew we were kindred spirits! Our lives overlap in so many areas and we share a common passion for the well-being of others. I was so moved by the history of Dale’s family and their inspiring philanthropic focus in the areas of medicine, the arts, education, human services, animal welfare and the environment. The creativity and vision that this special family has is truly astounding.

We are honored to have Dale as part of our Legacy Circle with her generous support for the work Harmony At Home is doing to uplift children, youth and families.

THE POWER OF GIVING

A love story turns to impactful results

This is a love story. Some call it chance, others may call it fate.

After a breakup, a girls' trip from San Francisco to Monterey has unexpected results. Girl meets boy and the rest is history.

This love story belongs to Tony and Leslie Finnegan, pictured here, who met by chance in the mid 90s and held on to a long-distance relationship. They married in 1999 after Leslie moved to Monterey.

Leslie and Tony have a son, Sam (23) and a daughter, Maggie (34) along with two grandchildren, Juniper and Wren (8 and 5). The Finnegans came to know Harmony At Home through its CEO, Julianne Leavy.

What many don't know is that Leslie moved to California after college in 1984 because "I always thought California was the best place to live." She held various jobs from housekeeper to consignment store clerk to running a day care in a fitness center. In 1985, Leslie attended UC Law San Francisco, where she earned her Juris Doctorate in Law in 1988. For five years, she practiced law and then she took a break to study and teach Iyengar Yoga.

Tony served Monterey County as a juvenile probation officer for over 23 years. "I enjoyed my job because I got to work with young people at a time in their lives that allowed for change and positive outcomes," he said. Retired now, he volunteers for iHELP, CASA, the Juvenile Justice Commission, and other community organizations.

For Tony, life was not easy. He was raised by a single mom, and family troubles led to him dropping out of high school. Fortunately, Tony found good programs and mentors along the way to help him get back on track. The work Harmony At Home (HAH) delivers hits close to home for Tony.

"Harmony At Home was in our tool kit for probation – it is efficient and effective," said Tony. "It's easier to help a kid through prevention, the impact is larger, and at a lesser cost."

"Harmony At Home is developing the leaders of tomorrow."

—TONY FINNEGAN

Leslie has been practicing law with Noland, Hamerly, Etienne & Hoss for the last 25 years. She wanted to give back to our community and learn more about HAH, and she inquired about joining the HAH Board. That was back in 2016.

"Serving on the HAH Board has been a great experience," Leslie said. "It is an easy board to be a part of with a wonderful group of people in a variety of disciplines."

The Finnegans are supporters to HAH in many ways. They are volunteers, sponsors, and part of the organization's Legacy Circle.

"I love the mission of HAH and how passionate everyone is, from the staff, interns, volunteers, and Board," said Leslie. "There is a great model in place that is helping kids directly and that is sustainable for years to come."

The pair is proud to see so many kids, turned adults, come back to HAH to share their stories. "There is a collaborative spirit," said Tony. "HAH is developing the leaders of tomorrow."

Leslie could not agree more and is proud to be a part of it all. "One of the most recent additions to HAH services is a program for teen fathers in our community – a group that is typically overlooked. The work HAH does with these young dads is life changing," she said.

A FULL CIRCLE MOMENT

Serena goes from dysfunction to endless possibilities

Just a few months ago, Serena Palacios, 24, joined the Harmony At Home team as an office assistant. Working there has been one of her goals for many years.

"I always told my girlfriends in my support system that one day I'd like to work for Harmony At Home," she said. For her, this is a dream come true, and she could not be any happier to be in the place that, according to her, gave her life.

"If it wasn't for Harmony At Home and Sticks & Stones, I would have gone in a different direction," she said. "I am one example of how Harmony At Home is helping people – I am just one of these whose life they helped to mold."

At the tender age of five, Serena had already experienced mental and emotional abuse and trauma. She, an older sister, and her younger brother lived with parents who abused drugs and were in and out of prison. Their grandma could not stand having her grandchildren living in this way and gained custody of all three.

This was a turning point in their lives.

Serena began her 4th grade at Loma Vista Elementary, and she began to act up and slip on getting her homework done. She would often tell her teachers that she was not happy at home. This is when she was referred to the Sticks & Stones program provided by Harmony At Home.

"I found a place where I had people whom I could talk to about my feelings," she said.

Her brother and sister joined the program for a few years, and Serena continued through high school at North Salinas.

"It was like a sisterhood; counselors Gail and Betsy made a huge difference in making us all feel safe," she said.

She kept in touch with the counselors and with many of the girls in the group after high school. She decided to pick up work in retail for a few years and experienced her first romantic relationship.

*"I am one example of how Harmony At Home
is helping people"*

— SERENA PALACIOS

"I experienced domestic violence in my very first relationship," she said. "I thought it was normal because that is what I remembered from my own parents acting the same way towards each other."

But her Harmony At Home support group was there to save her from that relationship and helped her to move on and to know that she deserved much better.

Today, she is independent and just moved into her own place in Marina. She loves having her independence: "I am prioritizing myself now."

She is looking forward to entering Monterey Peninsula College this fall as a marine biology major. She also enjoys counseling and thus hopes to, in the future, help youth who are going through challenges similar to those she encountered herself.

More good news. Both her parents, 44, have changed for the better. They both found new relationships and are living lives away from drugs. Serena stays in touch with them and is closest to her dad.

"Things are falling into place a little bit at a time," she said. "My parents have regrets but like my dad says, we need to enjoy the 'now' and not focus on the past."

She enjoys her life now and finds joy in reading, music, walks on the beach, hikes, and of course, time with family.

Thank you to our generous supporters and donors

Mission Strong

"I always told my girlfriends in my support system that one day I'd like to work for Harmony At Home," she said. For her, this is a dream come true, and she could not be any happier to be in the place that, according to her, gave her life.

16TH ANNUAL LUNCHEON

Nurturing Bonds EXPANDING Our Reach

Harmony At Home hosted its 16th Annual Luncheon at The Fairview at Laguna Seca Golf Ranch on October 18, 2024. The theme, Nurturing Bonds. Expanding Our Reach, was brought to life through an inspiring program that highlighted the power of community and connection. Guests heard from a panel of community partners and families that HAH has supported, with the highlight of the afternoon being a moving video that shared the story of young parents who benefited from the Family First program. This courageous family not only shared their journey in the video but also attended the luncheon, giving guests the opportunity to meet them and ask questions directly. Their presence was a powerful reminder of the impact Harmony At Home makes in the lives of families every day.

“Our luncheon is always a chance to celebrate the partnerships and stories that bring our mission to life,” said Director of Operations, Joaquin Hernandez. “Hearing directly from families who have overcome challenges with support from Harmony At Home reminds us why we do this work—it’s about healing, growth, and hope for the future.”

Harmony At Home appreciates all donors, supporters, school partners, and community partners who make the work meaningful and impactful.
